Plankton's dream is a throwback to old kaju films. Brick Joke: The last line, "Does anyone have a quarter?" While in Gary's dream, he tells SpongeBob a limerick. Three burnt fish walk up to Plankton looking mad! Well, I guess I've got some explaining to do, huh? Said stories are hardly scary; reading old magazines in a waiting room and the coldness of a stethoscope are practically mundane, Sugar Bowl: Pearl's dream takes place in a candy-colored Fluffy Cloud Heaven. Gary tries to talk him out of it (which angers him), to no avail. Sick Episode: One of the very few instances of SpongeBob getting sick. Karmic Death: When Plankton is reduced to normal size in his dream, one person decides to crush him under his foot the way he crushed Bikini Bottom Last Second Word Swap: "Not a parakeet! Para- [Splat!]" -medic." Marshmallow Dream: Referenced when Gary reads a limerick about it to SpongeBob.There was an old man from Peru / Who dreamed he was eating his shoe / He woke with a fright / In the middle of the night / To find that his dream had come true. Later, in Mr. Krabs' dream, he sees that Mr. Krabs has a mustache in his license photo. Suddenly Voiced: Gary is able to speak fluent English in his dream. Feigning Healthiness: SpongeBob does this a few times in the episode, first by denying having the suds so that he can go to work before Mr. Krabs is told by Gary that he's sick; then by trying to deny Sandy's insistence on taking him to the doctor per Patrick's demands. They make you read...OLD MAGAZINES! SpongeBob: Eek! Patrick: And then the doctor pulls out his STETHOSCOPE! SpongeBob: No! Patrick: Yes! It's a device so sinister, so icy cold when it touches your bare flesh that... Covered in Gunge: Sandy falls into a pile of clam manure. Instant Ice: Just Add Cold!: When SpongeBob leaves the fridge open all night, his entire house freezes. Leave the real treatment to the midships, Enemy Mine: Krabs and Plankton put their differences aside and join the forces to order Spongebob to refrain from entering into danger in dreams. PSSSI SpongeBob: No! No stethoscope! No doctor! No magazines! No PSSSI! ... Plankton wakes up screaming and his dream cloud pops, making Dream!SpongeBob fall to the ground] Ironic Echo: After Gary sticks his eyestalks in SpongeBob's socks, SpongeBob tells him "Mind your wandering eye, you little mollusk." Later, as SpongeBob leaves Gary's dream, Dream Gary warns him "Beware your wandering eye, you little poriferan." Jerkass Ball: Everyone at the end, when they scold SpongeBob for going into their dreams and ruining them. IttĀĀĀs probably more on the side of Krabs being concerned about losing business. No Celebrities Were Harmed: GaryĀĀĀs voice in his dream is influenced by that of Richard Haydn, best-known as the Caterpillar from Alice in Wonderland. waiting room. Motor Mouth: Sandy as she keeps blabbering on and on about how fast she'll get to SpongeBob instead of actually getting ready and going to his house immediately. Faux Horrific: Patrick's description of the doctor's office.Patrick: First, they put you in a... Sandy is so upset by the entire situation that she yells at him that he should be arrested on-the-spot for impersonating a doctor. Saying Sound Effects Out Loud: Dream Plankton. Freeze Sneeze: When SpongeBob is very cold, he starts sneezing, and ends up getting sick a bit later on. Inertial Impalement: Just as Giant Plankton is stomping him, SpongeBob turns into a pushpin, making Plankton stab himself in the foot and deflate back to normal.SpongeBob: I think he got the point, Midnight Snack: SpongeBob tries to eat a seanut butter and jelly sandwich as one. Happy Ending: At least by this show's standards. Both the king and the audience chase SpongeBob out of the theater like a bunch of fangirls after the performance. Women Are Wiser: Between Sandy and Patrick, Sandy is obviously the wiser option for SpongeBob's health. Then he sneezes out loud, causing dozens of pink bubbles from their pores. (In real life, she would be absolutely correct to suggest that.) Papa Wolf: Krabs has tones of this when he is clearly worried about a sponge becoming more sick. Fantasy Twist: The Dream of Patrick is just by riding a horsewalk from caballito in a white white universe. Now, outside of his own dream, he begins to explore the dreams of his friends and messy, each and every one of them, for example, in the dream of Plachtion of being a giant monster who destroys the city, Spongebob ends defeating and enclosed it. How?: All pÅ ciles, when Mr. Krabs says: "Since I can not have been sneezing all my meal!" Inflating the body's gag: Spongebob filling with bubbles after Patrick plugs the pores of him, which makes him swell like a beach ball. Creator Cameo: The shower man that Spongebob rubbed by him is Tom Kenny. The girls love the stuffed animals: Pearl's dream is that he has a party of ahead with the stuffed animals. Pending: Niños do not understand the sophistication of the TA © festivities. Gary's dialog asks Spongebob to say, that he sounds suddenly congested, "Do not be silly, Gary, do not resolve, (sniffle) I understand the foam." Gary responds again, and Spongebob tells him that if he really had the foam, then the bubbles would come out of him. Disproportionate retribution: After Squidward Ongriily breaks her clarinet during her dream, the king declares angry that if he does not listen to the "beautiful music", he is going to have a squid executed. When the trip stops and Patrick loses its last quarter, he only feels there. The only one who is not an imbecle at the end is Patrick, of all people, probably because Spongebob did nothing to bother him Your dream. PET the dog: This is also one of the most rare moments that Mr. Krabs showed concern for someone like Spongebob, due to the illness of this last. Bubbles of love: Love: Nothing personal: "Since I can not have been sneezing all my meal!" (Clients react with horror when listening to this and listening outside the KRUBE KRAB) "No, wait!" Wait! " Nurse with good intentions: Patrick, to Spongebob. This billboard needs some salt: Giant Plankton, after stepping on Krusty Krab, collects the sign and licking as a palette. Patrick comes with Pathetic and Bile Lies Sandy, when he had two houses ("since I stayed without my space to put my things?") Although most of the "things" at home They are just sand sculptures. Episode of Sueño: SpongeBob begins by having a dreamy dream and related to the conduction, when also a version of Mrs. Also, the same spongebob does this indirectly when Squidward ends From awake near the end. A AESOP: Go to the doctor if he feels sick, and do not let anyone try to scare him or talk to you or try to cure himself. And later, he is Sandy about Spongebob, to be well after the breathing exam, while he plugs his nose with a clothespin. Kaiju: What Plankton did not mean it was: Ramping through Bikini Bottom to Godzilla. When Spongebob looks at the picture of him in the dream of his dream, he says that a mustache should have grown. Pre-adsckicking one-lining: When SpongeBob allows Moby's dollar to move away, Mr. Krabs tells SpongegeBob that he is fired, then proceeds to shoot a pistol of him, launching Spongebob of Sueño or from him. One of which is where Patrick pulls one of the Spongebob teeth using the doorknob's method to cure him and asked Spongebob if it worked. Spongebob is cured and a giant lollipop is given, which is no longer afraid of the doctor, while Patrick is punished by all the terrible (though involuntary) things he did during the whole episode, especially that becomes passing A doctor. All rights reserved. Dream of Marshmallow: At the beginning of the episode, a hungry sponge is drew with the sky that rained Krabby empanadas, and wake up to meet. meet. on his pillow. Wrong Parachute Gag: In Sandy's dream, she and SpongeBob are skydiving, and she tells him he needs a "big ol' parachute." SpongeBob misunderstands and inflates his shoes (big ol' pair of shoes), then pulls out a parakeet. Then he sneezes loudly. blowing up the whole restaurant, much to Krabs' chagrin. You don't always have to be involved with their lives. SpongeBob: Is that the horrible part? Giftedly Bad: SpongeBob pretending to be SquidwardĀĀĀs clarinet, by morphing into the shape of the instrument and then shrieking ċĀĀĀLA LA LA LA LA LA!!!ċĀĀĀ horribly. Laser-Guided Karma: After all the stuff he pulled on SpongeBob and Sandy throughout the episode, and then having the nerve to fake having the suds himself when he sees SpongeBob get a lollipop for his treatment, Patrick gets his punishment in the form of the Starfish treatment. Before SpongeBob goes to bed, he tells Gary to "watch his wandering eye." When Dream\SpongeBob leaves Gary's dream, Gary tells him, "Beware of your wandering eye." They each follow it up with the proper phylum each character belongs to, as well (ċĀĀAmolluskċĀĀĀ and ċĀĀAporiferanċĀĀĀ), Spongebob awkwardly replied with a missing tooth that it didn't. White Void Room: PatrickċĀĀĀs dream is this, with only a coin-operated kideĀĀĀs seahorse ride, which promptly stops working when he runs out of quarters. Comically Inept Healing: Patrick's "treatments" for curing SpongeBob's suds. Punny Name: The giant hand that gives SpongeBob his treatment is named Hans. It is a very bad sign for a sponge to have pink bubbles coming out of their pores. Right, Mr. Stuffy? Though that doesn't explain why Gary and Pearl are annoyed. Original air date: 1/17/2000 (produced in 1999)SpongeBob, via astral projection, visits the strange, surreal dreams of his friends.Sleepy Time provides examples of: An Aesop: Perhaps not as obvious with the plot of this episode, but give everyone their private time.
