Study Interpretations 1 and 2. They give different views about the passing of the Civil Rights act. Use sources B and C to help explain your answer.

Source B From a speech given by MLK at the start of the voter registration campaign in Alabama 1965

At the rate they are letting us register it will take 103 to register all 15,000 Negroes in Dallas County who are qualified to vote. We are not begging for the ballot. We are demanding the ballot.

Source C From the civil rights movement, written by W.T.M Riches in 1997.

Julian Bond of SNCC commented in 1968 that 'The 64 and 65 Acts' took the pressure off the country. People weren't as concerned with civil rights because they felt they'd done what they should.

How useful are sources D and F as evidence of opposition to desegregation in the south in the 1950s.

Source F from the inauguration speech of Governor John Patterson of Alabama, January 1959.

"white and black children should have access to equal school facilities but they must be segregated. I will oppose with every ounce of energy I possess and will use every power at my command to prevent any mixing of races in the classrooms of this state... any attempt to integrate schools of this state by force would cause turmoil, violence and chaos..."

Top Tips:
When undertaking any source questions in an exam you will always need to consider the following:

Nature of the source = what type of source is it? For example a private letter is often very useful because the person who wrote it generally gives their honest view)

Origins of the source = who produced it? What are the advantages and disadvantages?

Purpose of the source = why was the source produced? For example the purpose of adverts are to make you buy the products.
